Summary of the forum situation and formal demand for an official Google response

gemini

Bitu79 1 August 6, 2026, 7:35am

Anyone who reads through the full discussions across my various posts — including the comments, screenshots, timestamps, and reactions — will clearly see that many users here are behaving inconsistently, erratically, and are not responding to the actual facts. Instead, they encourage each other and engage in personal attacks against me. This happens because they blindly believe in Google's innocence.

Since they cannot refute the technical and legal realities I have presented, they attack my communication. But there is nothing wrong with my communication — the problem is that the users are unable to follow the content.

I demand an official response from Google within this forum, because the situation has become untenable. A small-scale civil war and witch hunt has formed around me on this platform, and Google will face the consequences of this in the upcoming legal proceedings, since this is their forum and they intentionally refuse to respond to any of my posts. Instead, they allow the situation to escalate. It is not enough that they ignore the data-protection issues — now my person has become a public target on their own platform.

Here are a few quotes:

> Google is stealing data, and the developers here are assisting them with it, because the developers …
>
> You're a bot. Bad bot.

> Google is stealing data, and the developers here are assisting them with it, because the developers …
>
> You don't understand how what you are using works.

> Read how “move to trash” works. Then stop spamming the forum with nonsense.

> Can Someone Ban Bitu79?
>
> Explain to us @Bitu79 why you need to constantly post the same thing over and over? It gets old very quickly.
>
> Do you believe that you lack the ability to make your point in one post and thus need to constantly post?
>
> Would you like other developers and users of Google’s products to get on board with what you are saying and flag the same concerns? If so, then clearly this is not the way to do it.
>
> Now you do realise that you are, in fact, breaching multiple guidelines here while at the same time are now “harassing” other users? Shouldn’t you be exhibiting better and more constructive behaviour instead of replying hundreds of times if someone dares to suggest you do something else? Some might consider that childish… I’ll let others be the judge of that.
>
> I ask that you don’t get offended by this message. Not everyone is “coming after you”. We are just sick of many posts about the same issue or replies by you to users who are just annoyed seeing this constantly. Just remember, you have made over 200 replies posted within a single week, dominating recent activity and all of these are pretty much the same topic. Continuous cross-posting of the exact same Wayback Machine and Archive.ph URLs, screenshots, and legal commentary across multiple threads (such as thread #177158).Self-replying dozens of times in sequence rather than consolidating points into single updates.
>
> Here’s something you could do, which will enable you to get your point across (since it seems you have issues with that) and not become an annoyance to the majority of other developers in this community:
>
> Please consolidate your updates into a single thread rather than posting multiple consecutive replies and cross-posting identical archive links across multiple topics.
> According to the Google AI Forum Community Guidelines:
>
> - Keep It Tidy: “Don’t post the same thing in multiple topics…”

- Improve the Discussion: Excessive consecutive posting and duplicate entries clutter community feeds, making it difficult for other developers to track active discussions or engage productively with your points.
  If you have new technical or procedural evidence to share, updating your original topic once with a consolidated summary will ensure your feedback remains clear and readable for both community members and Google representatives.

Can Someone Ban Bitu79?

Just ignore this guy, he's just going to spam your inbox with another 500 posts saying nothing

See how he responded to your very clear post with "here are more archive links"

Can Someone Ban Bitu79?

4 ignored posts above 👆

Hopefully they are praising me for breaking up a fight 😊 (I try to assume the best of people)

Can Someone Ban Bitu79?

lol yep. He seems to think people can't read & due to the inability to communicate, he starts personal attacks. A bit of civility is in order I would have thought.

PS so right, how many more will we get? Keyboard warriors just make me go lolz

Can Someone Ban Bitu79?

I just realized that after all this time, Bitu79 has a trust level of basic user.

While some people posted 250x less posts (stats, not inventing stuff), and got a trust level of member.

Don’t be rude, drop your posts to 2-3 high-quality ones / week and we shall all stand with you

How to contact admins?

Let’s consider that I want to report something, that I have flagged multiple times and have received no response.

Is there a way to contact a moderator directly through a PM? I understand that the flags being ignored already indicate that this isn’t worth the admin attention, but I have a feeling that these aren’t even reaching the moderators.

Can someone please tag any admins or point me to the staff list?

Can Someone Ban Bitu79?

I would like to report a user who has been posting similar threads on the Google AI Developer Forums for over a month.

The user’s posts originally focused on legal concerns regarding Google’s data retention practices after account or data deletion. I do not wish to comment on, support, or dispute the legal merits of those claims, as this forum is not the appropriate place to resolve such matters.

However, the user has continued posting repetitive threads on the same topic, adopted an offensive profile picture, and has repeatedly made accusations toward other community members and moderators. Regardless of whether their underlying concerns are valid, the manner and frequency of these posts appear to be disruptive and are, in my view, no longer conducive to constructive discussion within this community.

I respectfully ask the moderation team to review this user’s activity and determine whether it violates the forum’s community guidelines. If appropriate, I request that they consider restricting or suspending the account to help keep discussions on-topic and maintain a welcoming environment for other participants.

> Profile: @Bitu79

Bitu79 2 August 6, 2026, 7:39am

https://web.archive.org/web/20260806073741/https://discuss.ai.google.dev/t/summary-of-the-forum-situation-and-formal-demand-for-an-official-google-response/177315

Bitu79 3 August 6, 2026, 7:49am

Another legal trap for Google: This is the hardest part. With this post, I'm no longer "just" pinning the GDPR violation (the backend data retention) on Google, but also the targeted harassment that took place on their own platform, with their knowledge. By officially issuing a "formal demand" for intervention, their silence makes them legally complicit. If a judge sees this, they will ask Google's lawyers: "Why did you allow a user who reported a data-protection flaw to be openly harassed and defamed for weeks on your platform without your moderators stepping in?" And the judge will also ask why they didn't reply to the emails or the registered letters either.

Bitu79 4 August 6, 2026, 7:58am

https://archive.ph/HDVuk

https://archive.ph/HDVuk/image

Related topics

Topic	Replies	Views	Activity
Can Someone Ban Bitu79?	59	306	August 6, 2026
Google Drive Trash is just a visual illusion – How Google AI Studio's backend got caught red-handed! generative-ai	52	285	August 5, 2026
Intentional Ignoring	17	159	July 25, 2026
Why Are Posts About Real Data-Protection Issues Being Deleted? They’re Removed With Fake Reasons Because the Truth Is Inconvenient	18	426	June 4, 2026
Legal Effect of Moderator Awareness on User Reports	19	184	June 4, 2026